Using real life scenarios youth will explore possible situations they may encounter and help prepare them so they can make an informed decision about the potential impact on their lives?

- Your parents give you permission to attend a party as long as there is a parent or other adult present and no drugs or alcohol.
- You get to the party and no adults present, what do you do?

What would you do?

The scenarios and discussion moves on from there, including possible outcomes of the decisions and the potential impact, short and long-term. Taken from real life and the headlines, we will discuss realistic situations youth may encounter and help them think about options and reasonable, practical alternatives.

Age and grade appropriate scenarios are designed to prepare students for the realities of life! The material can be tailored and customized for youth groups, schools, classes, and other special populations.

Special focus for 11th and 12th grades to begin students thinking with a future focus on life after graduation; whether college or right into the work force. What we call, Welcome to Life!!

Youth will learn...

- to be prepared, to plan ahead
- to problem solve and make informed decisions.
- the value of reliable adult support!
